

Do you Walk on the Wild Side?

Join your friends at Fundy Spores for a series of guided mushroom walks in Southwest Nova Scotia!

Lunenburg - August 26

Deep Brook - October 8

Digby County - October 14

Annapolis Royal - October 21

Fundy Spores 'Walk on the Wild Side' mushroom walks are an opportunity to join with other mushroom enthusiasts to discover and learn more about the incredible diversity of local fungi.

We choose low-medium intensity hikes on public trails to maximize inclusion and encourage folks to return to these spaces throughout the year, empowered to experience a range of mushroom activity and species.

Together we will seek out edible and health-promoting species, and discuss the potential creative uses and important ecological roles of the various specimens we encounter!

Register in person at the Annapolis Royal Farmers & Traders Market

Saturdays 8am-1pm

Wednesdays (July & August) 10am-2pm

or by email at fundyspores@gmail.com

Cost per person: $35. All walks are on Sunday or Holiday afternoons, times & meetup locations TBD. Please provide a valid email address at time of registration so we can make sure you have all the info you need to enjoy the walk, and in case of cancellation due to extreme weather, make alternate arrangements.

Note: Our walks are not "foraging" or "mushroom hunting" forays --
We will leave the forest as we found it, taking only photos, memories, new knowledge, and joy!
